Re:- Paul Herron

I was initially contacted by Paul last year with regards to developing a new web site for my company. I get lots of telephone calls from people who offer me things at low cost or supposedly no cost at all and I usually have no time for them.

With Paul though, it was different. I found his initial contact with me to be very professional but in a way that wasn't pushy. I decided to arrange an appointment for us to meet.

Paul turned up on time - in fact I think he was early. He was very clean and smart in his appearance and was very polite.

I asked Paul lots of questions about his capabilities and felt confident that he would do a good job. We discussed various options and scenarios and came to the conclusion that Priory Park needed a makeover! We decided on a new brochure and a new web site.

Over the next few months we kept in touch by email or by telephone and Paul returned all messages promptly with the exact information that I was looking for. We also had several face-to-face meetings and Paul captured some fantastic images with his camera and video camera. They are now proudly displayed on my brochure and web site.

I now have a brochure and a web site that look modern and edgy. The web site is very easy to navigate and the features that Paul has put on the site are absolutely fantastic and very professionally done.

Would I use Paul Herron again? Absolutely.

Would I recommend Paul Herron? Definitely. In fact my wife has decided to commission him to design a web site for her company.

If Paul continues to treat customers in the same manner as he has treated me, then he will go a long, long way with his career and be very successful. I wish him all the best.
